PROFESSIONAL BACKGROUND

Rob is a Partner and a member of the Construction, Insurance, Professional Liability and Commercial Litigation Law Groups at Singleton Urquhart Reynolds Vogel LLP. His practice involves all aspects of construction litigation. He has also litigated diverse commercial litigation professional liability, construction, and personal injury matters.

His varied experience allows him to assist in all manner of disputes. Rob's familiarity with the Rules of Court and alternative dispute resolution options permit him to develop a unique litigation strategy for every client no matter how big or small the dispute.

Recently, Rob has been involved with a procedurally challenging brokers negligence claim arising out of a major failure during one of the largest construction projects in Vancouver. The claim is procedurally challenging as it is being case managed with several other related high value actions. The case will develop the law with respect to disclosure of settlements and their terms and the law related to the duties of insurance brokers placing specialized policies.

Rob is known for pragmatic problem solving in challenging situations while keeping his clients' best interests and objectives top of mind.
